Amazon partnership marks major economic development turn

Editor's Note: Tribal Council sent the following message to the Membership on Oct. 18.

Fellow Tribal Members, we have GREAT news, and you are hearing it first. PLEASE keep it confidential to just us today. The official word will go out to employees and news media tomorrow.

So here is the news: We are partnering with Amazon.com Inc. to open a brand-new, high-tech 520,000-square-foot sort center on about 40 acres of Tribal land in the city of Fife. It's an impressive building, with 122 loading docks and 280 trailer stalls.

How does this benefit you? To begin with: revenue. We are getting a substantial payment each year in return for a long-term lease. And once the lease is done, we will own the building. We also are working with Amazon to get you information about how to apply for jobs at the site. Amazon is offering sign-on bonuses and college tuition, so you might be able to benefit very directly.

How else does it benefit you? It's another big step in our ambitious economic development program, and economic development means we'll be able to keep up services to you for generations to come. Today we're announcing the Amazon deal. We also have struck a deal with BetMGM to bring sports wagering to our casinos. And earlier this month we announced the Ram and Shenanigans purchase.

Amazon is a global company, one of the biggest retail players in history. BetMGM is a leader in digital gaming entertainment. The Ram purchase is a big step for us into commercial real estate. These deals show the Puyallup Tribe does business with giant, international companies and industry leaders. These deals and our growing business reputation open up opportunities for more land acquisitions and more deals that will secure our economy and protect future generations.

At the same time, we respect our values and demand prospective business partners respect them, too. The new Amazon building is energy-efficient and has provisions for electric charging stations and energy-efficient lighting. Moreover, Amazon has committed to a Climate Pledge to be net zero carbon by 2040.

We wanted to share this big news with you in a Membership meeting, but COVID-19 and technical glitches have been interrupting our plans. That's why we're sharing the news this way instead. We also have to say that we're sorry for all the secrecy with some of these projects. We have to keep these major economic deals secret while we negotiate, or else they could fall through – or we could get an unfavorable price. In most cases, in fact, we are legally bound to not discuss deals until they are finalized. Rest assured that all of us on Tribal Council are guiding our staff as they work out the details, and we are making sure everything is to the Tribe's benefit. We are a good team, we have good staff and we are making progress FAST.

That's the news, fellow Tribal Members. We hope you are as excited as we are. We thought about closing by saying this was a good day for the Tribe. No: It's a GREAT day for our Tribe.

Keep watching for our economic development updates. We have so many great projects in the works, and as soon as we can share them with you, we will. Keep watching. Stay tuned. There's more to come.

Puyallup Tribe, Amazon bring 520,000-square-foot sort center to Fife

Project expected to bring more than 500 jobs to area and bolster Tribe's economic portfolio

The Puyallup Tribe and Amazon.com Inc. have partnered to open a 520,000-square-foot sorting center in Fife that is expected to bring hundreds of jobs to the area and strengthen the Tribe's economic portfolio.

The building is expected to launch soon. It includes 122 loading docks and 280 trailer stalls and is being built on about 41 acres of land at 7449 45th St. Ct. E. The land is within Fife's city limits and owned by the Tribe, which as a sovereign nation has authority over it.

When fully operational, more than 500 people are expected to be employed. Many of them could be Tribal members; in addition to long-term lease of the property from the Tribe to Amazon, both entities signed a cooperation agreement that among other things says Amazon will support the Tribe's Tribal Employment Rights Ordinance (TERO) efforts, which is designed to increase contracting and employment opportunities for Indians on the reservation. Amazon agreed to make the Tribe aware of employment opportunities as well as requests for proposals and similar procurement opportunities.

"The benefits will have a long-term impact on our members, generating

This photo taken in August shows the vast size of the site's interior. Once it's fully operational, the center will employ more than 500 people, and the company has agreed to make the Tribe aware of employment opportunities.

hundreds of new jobs with great pay and benefits," said Bill Sterud, chairman of the Puyallup Tribal Council. "This is exciting. It's an opportunity to diversify jobs and open new career paths in industries like logistics, retail, and technology with a company that is known for innovating."

The project is also part of the Tribe's long-term economic development plans.

"We have promised our Membership that we will diversify our Tribe's revenue streams, to make us more resilient to economic changes and protect our people well into the future," Chairman Sterud said. "We already have the best casino in the state. In recent years we built a cancer center and natural healing center, and we expanded into cannabis sales. This month we announced our entry into commercial real estate through the purchase of The Ram and C.I. Shenanigans on Ruston Way. This deal is another major step forward.

All of these activities bring prosperity to our Membership, and as always we are committed to sharing with our neighbors."

Every year, the Tribe donates millions of dollars from its revenue to charities. Recipients have included food banks, Special Olympics Washington, American Cancer Society, Hilltop Artists and the Children's Museum of Tacoma. In fiscal year 2020 alone, the Tribe donated $2.5 million to various groups.

The Tribe has been vocal about similar projects' potential to disturb the environment and cultural resources. Regulatory departments at the Tribe reviewed the Fife project before it moved ahead.

Sterud also noted Amazon's Climate Pledge, a commitment to be net zero carbon across its business by 2040 – 10 years ahead of the Paris Agreement. More details about the pledge can be found here: <https://sustainability.aboutamazon.com/about/the-climate-pledge>. The Puyallup Tribe in December 2019 became one of the first tribes in the world to declare a climate emergency.

Tribal Financial Officer Matt Wadhvani, who under Tribal Council's direction is the staff lead for the Economic Development Team, said the Tribe is well-positioned to create more mutually beneficial partnerships.

"This deal shows Tribal Council is serious about using our assets, expertise, and vision to align with innovative companies that respect our Tribe and share our values," Wadhvani said.

Tribe, Council mark Orange Shirt Day

On Sept. 30, people throughout Indian Country marked Orange Shirt Day. As Chief Leschi Schools said in a Facebook post that day: "Ever wonder why we wear orange on Orange Shirt Day? September 30 has been deemed National Day of Remembrance for U.S. Indian Boarding Schools by the National Native American Boarding School Healing Coalition. The "orange shirt" in Orange Shirt Day refers to the new shirt that Phyllis Webstad, Northern Secwepemc, was given to her by her grandmother for her first day of school at St. Joseph's Mission residential school in British Columbia. When Phyllis got to school, they took away her clothes, including her new shirt. It was never returned. The orange shirt symbolizes what the school system took from Indigenous peoples."

"Today, we wear orange shirts in honor our relatives who were unable to come home from boarding/residential schools and for those who survived the atrocities of these institutions. Because of these warriors, our culture and people are present. We raise our hands to those who have shared their stories and continue to keep history accurate. ʔəsk'w'ədiitubuʔəd čəʔ. We are grateful to you folks.

Take a minute today to reflect on your connection to boarding schools, and continue to heal for the generations to come. Every child matters.

We encourage all to learn more about by visiting our Heritage Committee's Boarding School Project webpage, <https://www.puyalluptriballanguage.org/history/cushman.php>.

Puyallup Tribal Council statement on Ruston Way purchase

Editor's Note: The Puyallup Tribal Council issued the following statement to the Membership on Oct. 1, 2021, before announcing to employees and the public the historic purchase of property on Ruston Way in Tacoma.

Friends and Relatives,

We promised you last year that we would make economic development a priority. Today we are proud to announce that we have finalized the purchase of more than 2 acres of prime waterfront property on Ruston Way in Tacoma.

There are two well-known restaurants on the property: The Ram Restaurant & Brewery and C.I. Shenanigans. Shenanigans closed last year during the pandemic, but The Ram is still open and still popular. We will own the land and buildings and lease The Ram back to the owner. The deal will bring in millions of dollars in revenue to our Tribe for years.

On Oct. 5, 2021, Chairman Sterud unlocks the door to C.I. Shenanigans, the first time the door is opened under the Tribe's new ownership. Councilwoman Anna Bean holds the door open for Council to tour the restaurant. Photos by Ehren Flygare

Just as importantly, it diversifies our business portfolio, which only a few years ago was limited to the casino, gas stations and leased property in the port but today includes three cannabis stores, two casinos, six gas stations, a golf course, the Qwibil clinic and now commercial real estate. Diversifying our portfolio will make our revenue more sustainable, cushion us against threats like last year's pandemic, and protect your per capita and GWE payments.

Getting the Ruston Way property also means getting land back. The Ruston Way property is on our ceded territory. We have been buying back parcels all over the region since the Land Claims Settlement, and commercial real estate purchases are part of the process.

This is only the beginning. We are in talks with other prospective business partners and expect more good news to share in the next few months. This is an exciting time for us.

tiix'dubut čələp. Take care of yourselves. haʔ k'(i) adsəslabcəbut. Watch over yourselves well.

Your Puyallup Tribal Council: Chairman Bill Sterud, Vice Chairwoman Sylvia Miller, Annette Bryan, James Rideout, Anna Bean, Monica Miller and Fred Dillon.

Puyallup Tribal Council statement on extension of Vaccination Incentive Program

Editor's Note: Tribal Council issued the following statement on Sept. 29, 2021. It covers three important decisions Council made that day: 1. Extension of the Vaccination Incentive Program, 2. An upcoming requirement for employees to vaccinate or test weekly, 3. Upcoming restrictions on entry into Tribal Administration buildings.

A year and a half into the COVID-19 pandemic, our Tribal Community still sees its damage. To date, PTHA has reported more than 700 positive tests. Relatives and community members we know have gotten sick. Many lives have been lost. Council has taken measure after measure to protect our community and keep everyone safe.

One of our best, most successful programs has been the $500 vaccination incentive. As of this week, nearly 70 percent employees across all Entities are now vaccinated. But we must do better.

The pandemic continues to change. It is an ongoing threat and continues to impact our way of life. Tacoma-Pierce County Health Department reported more than 435 new cases just on Tuesday of this week. We continue to trust the advice of our medical director, Dr. Alan Shelton, and he has consistently counseled caution.

We have decided to extend the Vaccination Incentive Program for all Puyallup Tribal Members and all Puyallup Tribal Entity employees who are medically able to do so until the end of the COVID-19 pandemic.

We are taking two more actions that will go into effect once we finish details about implementation:

- 1. Employees must be vaccinated or test weekly: We have approved a policy that makes either full vaccination against COVID-19 or weekly testing a condition of employment for all Tribal Administration employees. The effective date of this policy has been extended until procedures are put into place. Please watch for further notice.

- 2. Building entry restrictions: Members, community members, vendors, employees and visitors must show proof of vaccination or a negative COVID-19 test taken within the past seven days before being allowed to enter a Tribal government administration building or workspace. For convenience, we have partnered with the Pierce County Emergency Management Division to set up a testing site for all employees next to the old Emerald Queen Casino tents. Tribal Administration will tell you more about the site soon. The effective date of this policy has been extended until procedures are put into place. Please watch for further notice.

We take nothing more seriously than the safety of our Tribal Community. You have a part to play in ensuring everyone's safety. Thank you to everyone who has gotten vaccinated. Thank you to everyone who will get vaccinated in the near future.

tiix'dubut čələp. Take care of yourselves. haʔ k'(i) adsəslabcəbut. Watch over yourselves well.

Warmly,
Your Puyallup Tribal Council: Chairman Bill Sterud, Vice Chairwoman Sylvia Miller, Annette Bryan, James Rideout, Anna Bean, Monica Miller and Fred Dillon.

Charlene Matheson

12/21/1950 – 6/23/2021

A memorial service for Charlene M. Matheson, age 70, was held June 23, 2021, at 10:00 a.m. at the Youth Center, Puyallup Tribe in Tacoma, Washington. Chairman Bill Sterud, family member and lifelong friend, officiated services. Ms. Matheson passed away Thursday evening, June 16, 2021, at her home on the Puyallup Indian Reservation.

Charlene M. Matheson was born on December 21, 1950 in Tacoma to Donald and Pauline (Camille) Matheson. She grew up in the fishing rights movement on the Puyallup River. She graduated from Fife High School in 1969, attended Green River Community College, where she met Norm Margullis, the man who would become her long-time husband and father of her only child, Hozoji, who was pretty much her whole world. After Norm was drafted into the Vietnam War, Charlene enrolled at the University of Washington where she earned 2 Bachelor's degrees, her master's degree, and her PhD in Psychology.

Once out of school she worked in mental health both for the state as well as for the Tribe. She worked for the VA Hospital and Western State Hospital eventually settling into a private practice in which she focused on helping victims of trauma and became an expert forensic witness for trauma victims for court proceedings.

As an enrolled member of the Puyallup Tribe, she recommitted to helping the Tribe, in her decision to leave private practice. At first as the Director of Kwawachee Mental Health Center, then as the Special Projects Planner in the Land Use Department. She found joy in working in land use and dedicated her expertise with more specialized training and stayed with it for the remainder of her career and life.

Even though she was a very private person, she still impacted the lives of many. Deeply spiritual in her own unique way, gentle, intelligent, and staunchly independent, she solidly stood her ground when it came to things, she believed in. Never one to pander to or be pandered too. She spoke softly when she told you exactly what she thought. She was tiny but mighty, one look from her let you know exactly how she felt and could easily change the course a person chose to take. She was the loudest quiet person you ever met.

This approach came through in her sense of humor as well. Sly in its delivery, it would catch you off guard and have you laughing out loud if you "got it". She had the trademark "Matheson humor through and through, she didn't fall far from the tree. She also inherited the Matheson love of music, as a master pianist. She had a beautiful singing voice and played multiple instruments throughout her life, including playing the Matheson band as a kid. This creative flare came through in many areas of her life. She loved drawing and learning crafts, she kept her home decorated in a way that made it feel very warm and cozy, and she kept her garden full of colorful flowers.

All these character attributes were an expression of the powerful love that lived inside Charlene. No matter what life dealt her, she kept working to see and create beauty; to understand and spread truth; to heal and protect; to educate and learn; to accept and feel accepted. Her dedication to be an honest person that earned her place in the hearts of her loved ones. Her strength is a gift we have all been given. Her lesson is one of perseverance. She gave us so much and she continues to give to us as we reflect on her life together. She brought us all together to teach us about love and appreciation and hope for a brighter future.

Survivors include her only daughter, Hozoji Matheson Margullis; her siblings; David (Jenny) Matheson of Worley, ID, Marjorie Matheson (David) Zarate of Fife, WA, Donna Matheson of Plummer, ID, Charles Matheson of Spokane Valley, and sister - in - law Cathy Matheson of Worley.

She was preceded in death by her brother, Paul Matheson, and Dianne Matheson Allen.

In Loving Memory

Michele Ann Spencer, also known as Sister BlueHorse, was born on February 12th 1986 to Laura BlueHorse(Mdewakanton Oyate) and David “Chissie” Spencer(Seminole/Creek/Chickasaw) in Tacoma, Washington. She was a beautiful, sweet bundle of joy from the time she entered this earth. She grew up on the Puyallup Tribal Reservation but traveled to ceremony in the plains every summer. She loved her “indian ways” and enjoyed pow-wow dancing both as a traditional and fancy dancer. When her great-grandma Tillie Cavanaugh was starting her journey she would go dance for her in her room. She always knew how to be a good relative and was a true Katela Win-warrior woman. She loved her relatives unconditionally and even when they upset her she wouldn’t hold grudges, she would always forgive. She would feed you and give you a place to stay without judgement. She loved her children and family more than anything in this world. She was also fierce, if you crossed her, or hurt her family, she would protect them with all she had. She loved to eat and would be sure to tell you what her favorite food was. She really knew how to make people laugh, even when they were sad. As she entered the hospital to fight this horrible disease, she messaged people that they couldn’t come visit her, but they should drop off snacks. She fought fiercely to get better to return to her children. She was so proud and had such big plans for them.

Every room she entered lit up, even at the hospital, her doctors fought so courageously to save her because they could even feel her light. She was loved the way she loved, she knew the universal truth, even when she struggled. Tiwahe Wayanka Win traveled to the stars to be with her Grandmas Tille, Ella, Marty, Carol, Patty, Emaline, Virginia and Shirley. Her Grandpas Stan, Marvin, Paul, Micheal Lee, Noah, Levi, Felix and many more ancestors. Her relatives left here include her beautiful children Lovella Liz BlueHorse, Laura Lee and Malachi Mato Mowat, siblings Anthony BlueHorse(Inez), Cris Swift, Osceola BlueHorse(Antonia), Adele Thompson(Ryan), Lavenia Duran(Will), Timothy BlueHorse, Wynonna Toeaina(Matt) and numerous loving relatives who are heartbroken missing her. Please keep them in your prayers-Wocekiya Ecala-prayer is everything-Hecetu-this is so.

How to claim $500 through the Vaccine Incentive Program

Puyallup Tribal News Staff

Late last year in the city of Fife, the Tribe bought the vacant Lux apartment building and reopened it as a temporary quarantine site to help stop the spread of COVID-19.

The facility is for use by Puyallup Tribal members, Tribal employees at all Tribal entities who have been diagnosed with COVID-19 – or been exposed firsthand to the virus – who have been instructed by a medical professional to isolate temporarily or have no other space to isolate as directed.

The Housing Department told the Puyallup Tribal News that so far, the Lux has helped over 21 families. The number substantially increased this last August as the Delta variant of COVID-19 spread. Each person who made use of the location was offered a safe space to get healthy.

The Lux site consists of 32 units ranging in floor plans. Lizetta Kelly, the Tribe’s facilities expert, took on the high-priority task of getting the Lux converted in just two weeks. She heard of a hotel at JBLM shutting down and made arrangements for the Tribe to get donated items for each of the rooms. They included pots and pans, bed spreads, pillows, and furniture – the kinds of things you would see in any hotel.

Kelly said she Vice Chairwoman Sylvia Miller, Councilwoman Anna Bean, and Lead Council Secretary Angel Robertiello teamed up to get things done.

“It was fun setting them up,” Kelly said.

They added touches like placemats and puzzles. Kelly even recalled having to do

Chairman Bill Sterud and facilities expert Lizetta Kelly tour the Lux in December 2020, shortly before it opened as a temporary quarantine site to help stop the spread of COVID-19. The former apartment building offers temporary residents complete kitchens and other amenities. Councilmembers and staff stocked the rooms with activities, dishes and other items.

some digging for landline phones in case of emergencies. She eventually found a few at Fred Meyer in Puyallup and Summer.

Each stay is limited to 14 days and is subject to availability. All units are fully furnished and equipped with things people need to get through quarantine. The Tribe’s Housing Department has been temporarily assigned to assist with the placement and management of the units.

Puyallup Tribal members and eligible employees can apply through the department by emailing tracie.wrolson@puyalluptribe-nsn.gov or calling (253) 573-7956.

If you should sign up with Housing for a stay and be approved, the staff will provide you with a list of items you need to bring to make it through your stay. Then they will ask you to fill out a list of items you need like groceries and hygiene products, and the Housing Department will do the shopping for you. Utilities are provided. Food is provided if needed, or residents can cook for themselves. DVD players and movies are also available along with cable TV.

Upon arrival to the quarantine site, you’ll enter through a side door and make no contact with staff. They you will enter the room and start to isolate. When you are ready to leave, you will exit through the same side door; this is to protect staff, including the security guards who protect the site.

After a person leaves a unit, a commercial cleaning service cleans each unit and sanitizes the whole room, making it available for the next occupant.

Tribal government still is taking precautions to help people keep from needing to quarantine in the first place. Tribal Council has asked people to exercise caution and continue to practice social distancing, mask-wearing, and to wash their hands often. Tribal Council recently extended the $500 Vaccine Incentive Program through the end of the pandemic. July's Honored Elder was Eloise Ackeret

Her family shared some of her life and their memories of growing up with the Puyallup Tribal News during the July Elders Luncheon. They recalled that she would tell them stories of her dad taking her fishing when she was growing up in Tulalip. She later moved to Ballard and had seven children of her own. They remembered she'd play baseball and kickball with them and take them to the movies. From Ballard she moved to Shoreline and a year ago moved into the House of Respect. "Do you like it here?" her youngest son asked shortly before Tribal Council blanked her. "Yes," she said.

Tribe shares historical significance of school lands

Puyallup Tribe staff joined representatives from Tacoma Public Schools, Metro Parks Tacoma and The Trust for Public Land on Oct. 6 in a tour of the Jennie Reed Elementary School yard with White House Council on Environmental Quality Chair Brenda Mallory and U.S. Rep. Marilyn Strickland. The schoolyard was designed through a partnership with TPL, the school district and the park district as part of a six-site pilot Green Schoolyards program. The program is meant to offer students safe green space close to home. Brandon Reynon and Charlotte Basch of the Tribe's Historic Preservation Department have consulted with the school district and Green Schoolyards program since November 2020. They shared the historical significance of the land the schools are located on and suggested how to incorporate Tribal history, art and culture into the design. Historic Preservation staff also led a Tribal history training with school staff over the summer. Basch and Lisa Anderson of the Tribe's Law Offices attended the tour.

This spooky season the Sustainability Workgroup wants to share a real-life scary story...

Submitted by the Sustainability Working Group

Our Native communities have long been familiar with the devastating impacts climate change has on our natural resources. This August the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, a scientific body of the UN, released an updated Climate Report validating what we've all known to be true. Based on analysis of more than 14,000 studies, this report is the most comprehensive to date and lays out the state of the Earth's. The takeaways are pretty terrifying!

Major takeaways:

1. Human influence: The report states that, "it is unequivocal that human influence has warmed the atmosphere ocean and land" (UN Report). This is different from previous reports that failed to take a clear stance on the absolute cause of climate change. The updated report leaves no room for debate, pointing to increased carbon dioxide emissions since the 18th century, caused by the burning of coal, oil, and other fossil fuels. The Puyallup community has seen these impacts in our homelands with the development of a smelter in Tacoma in the 1800s, the Port in the 1900s, and other industrial developments since colonization.

2. Accuracy of climate science:

This report makes more explicit determinations because climate science has improved even since the last UN report in 2013. There's also more data to pull from than in the past, including more data from parts of the world that "historically had little capacity for collecting climate data" (NY Times).

3. The next 30 years: Not spooky enough?

Even if everyone in the world takes drastic measures today to limit carbon emissions, the Earth's temperature will continue to warm over the next 30 years. Think of it like a moving train... the global warming train has been moving full speed for hundreds of years, it will take time to slow it, and even longer to stop it. This means we'll continue to see extreme droughts, heat waves, and glaciers melting over the next few decades.

4. Changes are happening quickly!:

Scientists noted that climate changes seem to be happening faster and faster. Just one example is that "the rate of sea level rise has roughly doubled since 2006" (NY Times). This is directly impacting tribal communities along the coast. The Quinault Nation, for example, is in the process of relocating their entire village after experiencing disastrous flooding and erosion due to increased sea level rise!

5. Too scary? Here's the good news!

This report lays out worst case and best case scenarios, factoring in levels of action we humans can take. Worst case scenario: we do nothing and the world warms 5-11 degrees Fahrenheit within the next 100 years. That seems small, but think of our heat wave this summer 11 degrees warmer! Many plants and animals, such as our precious salmon have low thermal tolerances and cannot survive this change, including treaty protected shellfish populations. Best case scenario: we reach "net zero" carbon emissions and greatly limit warming within 50 years. It's completely up to us. The reality, though, is that the biggest changes need to come from major companies with the greatest carbon footprint. And we as consumers can hold them accountable!

Here are some changes you can make today!:

- Recycle responsibly
- Compost
- Reduce consumption of single-use items like Styrofoam or plastic bags
- Research environmentally friendly clothing brands or purchase second hand
- Consume responsibly-raised meats and vegetables. The meat industry emits large amounts of CO2 into the atmosphere, but some companies are trying to change that.
- Invest in low-emission and electric vehicles
- Get involved in local environmental groups
- Vote! Large-scale change can only happen with leaders who prioritize our Mother Earth. Encourage others to make their vote count too.

Thank you!

Boze Elementary School students made a thank-you poster for the Puyallup Tribe's funding of a small soccer field at the school. Connie McCloud and the rest of the Culture Department opened the field in September with lessons of sharing and honoring the land, with students in attendance. The mini pitch was funded through a multi-year partnership between Emerald Queen Casino, the Sounders FCS and the Puyallup Tribe.

Students, staff and community members celebrate official unveiling of Hilltop Heritage Middle School

Tacoma Public Schools and Puyallup Tribal News staff

A drumroll followed by cheers, a few tears and applause erupted from the crowd as Hilltop Heritage Middle School, formerly Jason Lee Middle School, was unveiled officially Oct. 6.

The school's name change honors and celebrates the heritage and diversity within Tacoma's Hilltop community.

Students, staff and community members proudly waved pennants displaying the school's new name, Hilltop Heritage Middle School. Speaking in her native Lushootseed language, Puyallup Tribal Member and Historic Education Coordinator Charlotte Basch moved the crowd as she shared how many Puyallups do not know their language because of actions of missionary Jason Lee and others like him.

A Lushootseed name was considered for the middle school, which is situated on the ancestral lands of the Puyallup Tribe of Indians. With Twulshootseed language revitalization efforts underway, Basch proposed the name šəqalič Middle School, which is the Lushootseed word for "up on top."

"After meeting with the directors of the Tribe's Historic Preservation, Culture, and Language departments, the official recommendation from the Puyallup Tribe is to honor the rich and diverse history of the Hilltop neighborhood," Basch said in a statement to the school board earlier this year. "Hilltop has a unique history that speaks to the diversity, and often shared struggle, of Tacoma's residents of color. There is no better way to lift up the story of the community and its residents than by naming the school after them."

"Hilltop Heritage" received the most votes from students and staff and won final approval from the school district.

Puyallup Tribal Member Lucia Earl-Mitchell also served on the middle school's renaming committee.

Students and staff voted on the top four proposed names. The Tribe's recommendation of šəqalič was the second-most popular option put in front of the school board by the naming committee for consideration.

"We need to learn from our pass the good and the bad, this is to ensure we don't repeat unnecessary tragedy and trauma," Earl-Mitchell said in a Puyallup Tribal News article from February. "We should not erase history but learn from it, teach it the way we want it to be taught. Learn better, do better. We are all in this together."

The Oct. 6 event marked a historic change motivated by a community of trailblazers who pioneered the charge to rename the school.

President Biden becomes first president to proclaim Indigenous Peoples' Day

On Oct. 8, President Biden issued a presidential proclamation for Indigenous Peoples' Day, making history as the first sitting president to do so.

Indigenous Peoples' Day is celebrated on the second Monday in October to honor Native American Peoples and celebrate the histories and rich cultures of the first peoples and their ancestors.

Outside the Tribal Community, many Americans continue to celebrate Columbus Day. Columbus Day commemorates the anniversary of Christopher Columbus' arrival to the Americas in 1492.

Biden's proclamation did not formally denounce Columbus, but the IPD holiday will now be shared as a federal holiday along with Columbus Day. Biden stressed the resiliency and strength of Indigenous people and their ability to overcome, and the impact they have made on the United States.

Flu season is coming; what are the similarities and differences between flu and COVID-19?

Written by Alex Harrison, Puyallup Tribal Member

Influenza and COVID-19 are both contagious respiratory illnesses, but they are caused by different viruses.

Influenza viruses include Flu A, Flu B, Flu C, and Flu D viruses. Flu A and Flu B are responsible for the seasonal flu epidemics more commonly known as the flu season. Flu C viruses are not known to cause epidemics. Flu D only infects cattle and is not known to spread throughout humans. These viruses cause respiratory illnesses.

COVID-19 on the other hand is a Coronavirus that was first identified in 2019. According to the CDC, it is spread more easily than the flu. Compared to the flu, COVID-19 can cause more severe illnesses in some people. People infected with COVID-19 can also take longer to display symptoms.

Similarities in symptoms for both flu and COVID-19 include: fever or chills, shortness of breath or difficulty breathing, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, muscle pain, body aches, headache, vomiting, diarrhea, and change in or loss of taste or smell although this is more frequent in COVID-19 cases. Diarrhea is more common in young children with flu than in adults with flu.

A key difference between the flu and COVID-19 is if a person has COVID-19, they could be contagious for a longer time than if they had flu. Typically, a person experiences symptoms anywhere from 1 to 4 days after infection with the flu. Alternatively, a person experiences symptoms about 5 days after being infected with COVID-19, but symptoms can appear 2 to 14 days after infection.

Both COVID-19 and flu can spread from person-to-person between people who are in close contact with one another. Both are spread mainly by large and small particles containing virus that are expelled when people cough, sneeze, or talk. These particles can land in the mouths or noses of people who are nearby and possibly be inhaled into the lungs. This is why wearing a mask is important in most situations.

FDA approved flu vaccines protect against the flu viruses that are expected to circulate annually. Three COVID-19 vaccines have been authorized by the FDA to protect against COVID-19 diseases.

National Democratic leader tours reservation

U.S. Rep. Sean Patrick Maloney, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, visited Tribal Council and the reservation on Sept. 25.

Maloney, who represent New York's 18th congressional district in 2012, was selected in late 2020 to head the committee, which recruits candidates and helps raise funds for campaign races. He was first elected to Congress in 2012, becoming the first openly gay member of Congress from New York, and serves on the House's Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, Transportation and Infrastructure Committee and Agriculture Committee.

Tribal Councilwoman Annette Bryan guided Maloney on a tour of several Tribal buildings, including PTHA, the Elders Center and Emerald Queen Casino.

At EQC, they discussed local and Indian Country policy issues and discussed reauthorization of the Native American Housing Assistance and Self-Determination Act or NAHASDA. They discussed the development of Tribal housing that meets the needs of its Tribal members and other Indians located in the Tribe's service area. The current legislation is making a considerable step toward self-determination in regards to housing.

They also discussed topics such as Tribal taxes, Tribal environmental issues, and cannabis.

"I think it's important that we take every opportunity to show elected officials who make decisions that impact us our homelands and tell our story," Councilwoman Bryan said.

Immersive Eagle Passage at Northwest Trek wins national award

The Puyallup Tribe of Indians gives millions of dollars to community groups each and every year, continuing to demonstrate its generous and welcoming behavior.

One of the recent beneficiaries was Northwest Trek Wildlife Park, which opened the immersive Eagle Passage exhibit in August 2019. The Tribe was a major donor, contributing $100,000 toward the $570,000 cost.

Eagle feather-inspired plaques mark the exhibit's major donors.

Now the exhibit has won a national award. In September, the Association of Zoos & Aquariums awarded the zoo top honors for the exhibit.

The passage offers a home for rescued and injured bald eagles, allowing visitors a firsthand witness of the success of the conservation. With bald eagles near extinction, patrons can take home the notion that others care about the eagles and can offer hope to future eagle conservations.

“My goal was to make Eagle Passage look and feel like where you would find bald eagles in the wild – up at Mount Rainier or on the Olympic Peninsula,” wildlife park horticulturist Jake Pool said in a Northwest Trek media release.

Public Comment Announcement

The Department of Planning and Land Use Services is requesting input from the Puyallup Tribal Membership regarding updates to the Tribe's annual Tribal Transportation Planning (TTP) Inventory.

The TTP allows for the Tribe to allocate federal grant funds towards public roads, transit, and public walking trails within the Puyallup Reservation boundaries and usual and accustomed areas. Current and past projects has included Browning Street (ongoing), the St. George Cemetery road, the completion and repair of Chief Leschi's School road, and 30th Street expansion and roundabout.

- What are the public roads that are in need of repair or safety improvements within the reservation boundary?
- Is your street on the TTP street inventory for future road work?
- What are your transportation needs, questions, and concerns?

The Planning Department is currently reviewing the TTP inventory which include but are not limited to roads within Tacoma, Fife, Milton, Edgewood, Puyallup and unincorporated Pierce County.

All comments and input should be forwarded to the Planning and Land Use Department located at 3009 E. Portland Ave, Tacoma WA 98404
